Ullman challenges Ford on tax cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chief tax law architect in the House challenged President Ford today to say where he wants $28 billion cut from government spending in exchange for his proposed $28 billion tax cut, saying it is "preposterous" to expect Congress to act otherwise.

Chairman Al Ullman, D-Ore., of the Ways and Means Committee delivered the message to Treasury Secretary William E. Simon as Congress went to work on tax reduction legislation, including the $28 billion proposal which Ford called "the biggest single tax cut in our history."

However, Simon, in a quickly arranged appearance before the committee, insisted that Congress pledge itself to a $395 billion ceiling on spending, thus promising the spending cut, and leave details to be worked out in discussions with the administration.

The $28 billion total for 1976, including tax cuts totaling $22.9 billion already in effect which Ford proposes to extend, does not contain any provision for rebates. But individual taxpayers would get about $2.6 billion more in tax reductions in 1976 than in 1975.

Tables provided by the White House show that, if Ford's individual tax reductions are enacted, a family of four with income of $15,000 would be able to reduce its taxes by $287 more in 1976 than it can this year.

If the President's proposal, made Monday night in a nationally broadcast address, is approved, the effect would show in tax withholding from paychecks beginning Jan. 1, 1976, and on tax returns due April 5, 1977.

Simon told the committee Ford will positively veto any tax cut legislation Congress passes if Congress does not commit itself to a $395 billion limit on spending.

"If the President wants a $395 billion budget, why doesn't he submit a $395 billion budget?" Ullman demanded.

"...Are you sitting there with a straight face and saying that Congress can be expected to put a ceiling on a budget it hasn't seen, without knowing what priorities would be set — to blindly strike out with no information on the budget... and put a tax cut in place by January?"

Simon replied that Congress has budget-making machinery through newly-established committees, and "we would be delighted to work with them and show what the executive plans to do."

Ullman countered that Congress would be happy as well to work with the administration responsibly, "but to expect us to strike out blindly and put in a $395 billion ceiling without a budget strikes me as totally preposterous. I must say I am rather shocked that the administration would propose such a thing."

House Speaker Carl Albert told reporters he agrees with Ullman. Imposing a spending ceiling without seeing the budget, Albert said, "is like tying infinity to zero — you get nothing."

As the House Ways and Means Committee took up various tax-cut proposals, there were some Democratic doubts that the legislative branch can meet Ford's request for a $28-billion reduction in government spending to match his proposed tax cut.

But the President told Republican congressional leaders at a White House meeting he will veto 100 bills if he has to to cut government spending in exchange for the tax cut.

The Republican leaders listed future anticipated increases in medicare, medicaid, food stamps and categorical grants in aid possible areas for reduction in spending growth.

Tax cut highlights

By The Associated Press

Here are major features of the proposed $28 billion in permanent tax reductions proposed by President Ford Monday:

For individuals:
—Raise the personal exemption taxpayers can claim for themselves and their dependents from $750 to $1,000. Estimated savings to taxpayers would be $10.1 billion.

—Replace the minimum standard deduction and the maximum standard deduction with a single standard deduction of $1,800 for a single taxpayer and $2,500 for married couples. Estimated savings, $4 billion.

—Reduce tax rates for taxable incomes up to $10,000 for married taxpayers. Estimated savings, $6.6 billion.

—Over-all reductions for individuals would be $4 billion more than relief from the 1975 rebates and reductions.

For business:
—Reduce the maximum corporate tax rate from 48 to 46 per cent. Estimated savings, $2.2 billion.

—Extend 1975 corporate rate and surtax exemption changes benefiting small business. Estimated savings, $1.7 billion.

—Permanently increase the investment tax credit from 7 to 10 per cent for most businesses and 4 to 10 per cent for utilities. Estimated savings, $2.5 billion.

—A six-point program of tax relief for electric utilities. Estimated savings, $600 million.

Slater physician faces felony charge

SLATER — A preliminary hearing for Dr. Nelson Suarez, a Cuban-born physician charged with illegally dispensing a controlled substance, is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. Wednesday in Saline County Magistrate Court, Marshall.

Dr. Suarez, a physician in Slater for the past 24 years, is free on $5,000 signed bond.

The criminal complaint filed against Dr. Suarez charges him with dispensing three capsules of clorazepate, a diet pill restricted under Missouri statute, to two teen-aged girls on Sept. 15 in his office.

According to reports, the girls, Miss Cindy Lue Sumpter, 16, and Miss Judy Marie Deaton, 18, both of Slater, went to Dr. Suarez's office here to pick up a prescription for Miss Deaton's parents.

While in the office, Miss Deaton reportedly later told a sheriff's deputy, Dr. Suarez offered the girls pills which he told them would make them "feel good."

The girls took their story to Elmer (Lucky) Drew, a Saline County sheriff's deputy in Slater and the stepfather of Miss Deaton's fiancé.

A second visit to the doctor's office was arranged, according to Saline County Sheriff Henry Hoff, and Dr. Suarez allegedly gave the three pills to the girls.

Evidence in the case also includes a tape recording made by use of a microphone concealed on one of the girls during the visit to the physician's office, according to officials.

Ernest Sjoblom, executive director of the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, said the microphone was connected to a radio transmitter, also concealed on the girl. The conversation was reportedly transmitted to a vehicle parked a short distance away.

Highway Patrol officers in the vehicle reportedly taped the conversation, however, Sjoblom refused to discuss the contents of the tape.

Dr. Suarez's preliminary hearing will be heard by Howard County Magistrate Judge Ralph Jaynes, following a motion by Dr. Suarez's attorneys, Larry McClure and Michael Reid, both of Marshall. They have also filed a motion asking for access to evidence in the case.

Council votes to keep $6.15 Cablevision rate

The City Council Monday night voted unanimously to deny Cablevision's Aug. 4 request for a rate increase from $6.15 per month to $6.90.

Taking only minutes to reach their decision, the council first killed First Ward Republican Allan Hawkins' motion for an increase to $6.25 by failing to second it. Third Ward Democrat Carl Franklin then proposed a resolution prohibiting any change in the current $6.15 rate. The motion was seconded and the resolution passed.

Citing the jump in the subscription rate from $4.90 to $5.90 which became effective last January the resolution went on to point out further increases requested by Cablevision. On July 21, the council approved another increase to $6.15 per month, which became effective Sept. 1.

The resolution states that the present $6.15 rate would produce a fair profit and rate of return for Cablevision, that the rate was in line with the national average, and that the rate was reasonable in light of current inflation and economic trends.

Jim Buckley, local attorney representing Cablevision, said he expected to get in touch with United Cable TV, formerly known as LVO Cable TV, the parent company in Tulsa, Okla., sometime Tuesday.

"We're weighing the matter seriously and considering our responsibility to our shareholders," he said. He also said, "I think the council's action was arbitrary," adding "vision may take 'action' against the city in the near future," in court.

In other council business, a resolution was adopted encouraging the Missouri

Housing Development Commission to consider making low-interest loans or subsidies for additional elderly housing in the city. Mayor Jerry Jones said Sedalia was turned down previously because there were other cities with no low-cost housing for the elderly at all and were given higher priority.

Jones said the request for aid was made by the city "several months ago," and that the resolution would be a formal way to reiterate the request.

The council also approved several new board memberships and promotions.

Larry Melton, 2314 West First, was voted by the council to become the eighth member of the Planning and Zoning Commission, which complied with a resolution at the last council meeting to elect an additional member. Melton is executive manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

Fourth Ward Democrat David Curry was also elected to the commission. This complies with an ordinance previously adopted calling for a council member on the commission.

The council, acting on the recommendation of the Police Personnel Board, promoted Patrolman Harold Moore, 505 East 20th, to corporal. The council also approved the appointment of Bobby W. Moore, 1515 Cedar Drive, to the board. Moore will replace Dr. Ron Shuler, who resigned recently.

Kansas City firefighters end walkout

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A four-day-old Kansas City fire fighters' strike ended today after the city promised to reinstate 59 men who were discharged for failing to cooperate in investigating cases of possible arson during the strike.

Mayor Charles B. Wheeler Jr. and other city officials had accused members of Local 42 of the International Association of Firefighters of deliberately setting some of the more than 200 blazes which erupted in the city during the strike.

Union spokesmen angrily denied the accusations.

The city's 858 fire fighters began returning to duty this morning after Wheeler agreed to rehire the union members who were dismissed Sunday night and the union pledged full cooperation with law enforcement agencies in the suspected arson cases.

The fire fighters, who walked out Friday morning in a pay dispute, still have not achieved the demand they first issued in 1969 — pay parity with city police officers.

Fire fighters currently earn $10,200 to $12,996 annually, while police officers earn $9,432 to $15,305 a year.

Talks between the city and the union with a federal mediator are scheduled to begin at 2 p.m. EDT today.

Union leaders and city officials announced an end to the walkout after the two groups met separately for about two hours early today. While discussions continued, nearly 800 National Guardsmen and hundreds of police officers and volunteers patrolled city streets and manned the 59 fire stations.

Fire fighters said Monday they were prepared to return to work, but they refused to do so until the 59 dismissed men were rehired.

Wheeler stood by his refusal to rehire the men until late Monday night, when he said City Manager Robert Kipp assured him that the move would be something the city "could live with" to get the men back to work.

The city has maintained the walkout was illegal because state law prohibits public employe strikes and because the city has a valid work agreement with fire fighters until May 1, 1976.

Kissinger urges Congress to act now on Sinai pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger urged "prompt and positive" action by Congress today to approve stationing of American monitors in the Sinai Desert.

Without congressional consent, he said, there will be no interim accord effective between Israel and Egypt.

Kissinger urged the Senate Foreign Relations Committee not to link the Sinai accord to any other undertakings by the United States. He said that for the most part, the other undertakings are statements of intention and not all are legally binding.

Kissinger said the administration's particular concern is "that statements of intention not be given a legally binding character which was not intended." Kissinger's appearance before the committee was to be followed by testimony from form Sen. J. William Fulbright, onetime chairman of the panel. The committee then may vote late today.

Kissinger assured the committee that a congressional vote for sending up to 200

American technicians to early warning stations in the Sinai "will not commit the Congress on any other issue."

But Kissinger said the separate assurances to Israel and Egypt by the United States are "important statements of international policy and involve the good faith of the United States."

A consensus appeared to be developing on the committee for limiting congressional approval to the use of the monitors while disclaiming immediate consent for related peace agreements binding the United States to consideration of aid to Israel and Egypt.

The committee was under pressure from Senate leaders to act quickly so the Senate would not have to postpone next week's Columbus Day recess.

The White House had wanted congressional approval of the technician issue by last Friday. The House International Relations Committee has approved the stationing of the civilian technicians, clearing the way for a full House vote later this week.

Both Israel and Egypt sought the use of American civilians to monitor the Sinai peace as conditions of their signing the interim accord.

Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., today questioned the validity of "executive agreements" in which the administration promised aid to Israel and Egypt as part of the Sinai accord.

He suggested the committee approve assigning the American technicians but in a separate resolution ask President Ford to find out if Israel or Egypt would object if the related agreements were submitted to the Senate for ratification as treaties.

Paul Warnke, former assistant secretary of defense, told the committee Monday that if the agreements are intended to be binding they cannot become effective without the approval of Congress.

Barnes says district in violation of law

The recently-established Sweet Springs ambulance district, approved in a special election Aug. 5, was set up in violation of state statutes, Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Donald Barnes said Tuesday.

In a written report to the Pettis County Court, which asked Barnes to investigate the formation of the district Oct. 6, Barnes stated he believed there is "substantial basis" for maintaining that the ambulance district formation was "invalid."

The means for officially certifying this contention, Barnes suggested, would be by court action in the form of a suit filed against the Saline County Clerk by taxpayers in the district.

Such a suit, Barnes said, should request that the clerk be prevented from adding the 15 cent district tax levy to the tax records or that the county collector be prevented from collecting the tax.

Barnes maintained in his report that the official public notice of a public hearing on the proposed district, which appeared in the Sweet Springs Herald newspaper, was not in compliance with state statutes because it did not include a description of the proposed territory. It also did not list the communities involved.

Also, Barnes stated, state law requires that a public hearing on such a matter as the proposed ambulance district must be held "not less than 30 nor more than 40 days" after the filing of a petition to establish the district. The hearing in question, Barnes noted, was held June 25, which was 56 days after the petition was filed on April 30.

Barnes further maintained that a past decision by the Missouri Supreme Court upholds the principle that invalid public hearing notices will, in turn, invalidate the election involved.

Eastern District Judge Russell McFatrach said Tuesday Barnes was asked to investigate the situation after the court received complaints from several Pettis County residents living in the district. Apparently no such complaints arose in Saline County.

The county court did not learn that an election to form the district would be held until July 23, a short time before the actual election. The ambulance district is composed largely of Saline County townships, with a two square mile area covering portions of Hughesville, Houstonia and Blackwater townships in Pettis County.

It was also reported that until the issue is settled in court, the 15 cent tax levy must be added to normal tax statements and collected.

Property tax study notes broad disparity of rates

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A seven-month study showing a wide disparity between property tax assessment rates in Missouri's 114 counties and the city of St. Louis is proof that property taxes should either be reformed or eliminated, according to state Auditor George Lehr.

According to the study, which covered 21,104 parcels of property sold in 1974, the average assessed valuation ranged from a low of 6.9 per cent of real value in St. Clair County to a high of 56.4 per cent in St. Louis. State law requires that all property be assessed at 33 and one-third per cent of value.

Eighteen workers from Lehr's office began the property assessment study last January, when Lehr predicted that none of the state's county assessors was assessing property at the statutory rate. The study, released officially today, showed exactly that, with the closest rate at about 25 per cent.

"I should point out that this report is not an attempt to evaluate the work of individual assessors or other county officials," Lehr said Monday. He added that he was "distressed" by the study's results, "which confirm my suspicion that in fact there is very little equity in property taxation in Missouri."

The Democratic state auditor said the Missouri Tax Commission was suppose to maintain uniformity of assessment levels between counties, but he added that its members were not doing their job.

Previous audits of state agencies have included a place for a response from the head of the agency being audited. No such response was included in the property tax audit, Lehr said, because responsibility for

Tests point to one gun in Robert Kennedy killing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A panel of experts assigned to examine ballistics evidence in the 1968 slaying of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy has reported there is no proof that more than one gun was used in the assassination.

But the seven-man panel said Monday there was no way to determine positively whether any of the seven bullets collected at the shooting scene came from convicted assassin Sirhan Sirhan's .22-caliber Iver Johnson revolver.

All of the bullets were of the same general category and possibly came from the same gun, but only three were in good enough shape to be compared with test bullets fired last week from the Sirhan gun, the panel said in a report to Superior Court Judge Robert A. Wenke.

One of the experts, Alfred A. Biasotti, said examination of the three bullets "very strongly pointed" toward Sirhan's gun but "was just short of positive proof."

Sirhan was convicted of murdering Kennedy and is serving a life sentence in San Quentin Prison, but some people have questioned whether Sirhan acted alone. Conspiracy theorists have said photographs of the bullets showed dissimilarities and that more than one gun must have been used in the assassination.

The question simmered for several years until Paul Schrade, who was wounded in the assassination, and Columbia Broadcasting System Inc. brought a lawsuit last July, and Judge Wenke ordered a re-examination of the ballistics evidence.

The next step will be cross-examination of the panel next week.

Acting Dist. Atty. John Howard said, "I fear that the mentalities of the various assassination theorists will not allow them to abide by this decision."

But Sirhan's attorney, Godfrey Isaac, said, "The report concludes that there is no evidence to support the second gun theory.... I'm convinced that these seven experts were trying to do an honest job and I think that their results are realistic."

Bond forfeiture is considered by judge

LEBANON, Mo. — Laclede County Circuit Judge John Parrish Monday took under advisement a motion to forfeit the bond of Walter C. Prohaska, 33, Detroit, convicted on a felonious assault charge last March. Prohaska failed to appear for his sentencing May 15.

Judge Parrish said he would rule on the motion in 60 days.

Prohaska was charged with assault with intent to do great bodily harm to Kenneth Swinford, Sedalia, during the 1974 Ozark Music Festival held at the State Fairgrounds.

Prohaska was convicted of striking Swinford across the face with the hook of his artificial arm after Swinford entered a hole in the fence at the Fairgrounds.

Prohaska had been free on $7,500 bond.

Run-away youth is held in county jail

A 15-year-old Sedalia youth was being held in the county jail at noon Tuesday after being transferred to Pettis County from the Boone County Juvenile Justice Center, Columbia, Tuesday morning.

The boy was picked up Monday morning after wrecking a stolen car near Rocheport. He allegedly stole the car Sunday night from the lot of Pat O'Connor Chevrolet-Buick-GMC, 1300 South Limit.

The same youth admitted to Boonville police that he stole another car in Sedalia Thursday and abandoned it along Highway 65. He was picked up in Boonville Friday and returned to his parents.

A spokesman for the county juvenile office said Tuesday that the youth will remain in jail until a decision is made by juvenile authorities about filing charges against him.

Tickets given students who ignored light

Five Smith-Cotton high school students were issued summonses by police Tuesday for crossing a street against a red light at Broadway and Massachusetts.

Two juveniles and Robert Buscha, 17, 814 East Sixth, were issued tickets by police before the start of school Tuesday morning and two other juveniles were given tickets during the school's lunch break.

Police reported they have received several complaints of high school students crossing against the lights at the corner. Reports of students almost being struck by motorists have also been received.

The high school reportedly began warning students of the ordinance prohibiting crossing against a light last Thursday over the school public address system.

Municipal Judge Jack Cunningham has set bond for the tickets at $15 and told police that any one issued a summons must appear in court.

Information on the juveniles has been turned over to juvenile authorities. Buscha is scheduled to appear in Municipal Court Oct. 17.

Women's movement: a progress report

By PAT CHAPMAN JONES

NEW YORK — Six years ago, thousands of women thronged streets throughout the country to commemorate the 50th anniversary of women's right to vote. In New York, the event was celebrated by a jubilant march down Fifth Avenue, culminating in a mass demonstration in Bryant Park behind the Public Library.

"Wow," said feminist Kate Millett, author of the movement's new bible, "Sexual Politics," "we really have a movement now."

Where is that movement today?

There have been notable advances (ERA, abortion) as well as major setbacks.

The Equal Rights Amendment, a target issue, still remains unratified. The national day care centers bill, passed by Congress, suffered presidential veto and lies dormant. Women's right to abortion on demand, while confirmed by the United States Supreme Court, is being attacked in many ways in various parts of the country. Because of the recession, many jobs recently gained by women have been lost because of seniority rules.

And this summer at Mexico City, the much hailed International Women's Conference sponsored by the United Nations, degenerated into a political forum.

Back home, there have been signs of open rifts between segments of the movement. One group, the Red Stockings, whose founding manifesto emphasized "sisterhood," issued a wordy document attacking editor and writer Gloria Steinem as "purported CIA agent."

In addition, the year has seen the growth of several national women's organizations dedicated to "teaching the art of pleasing the man in happy subservience."

Despite these losses, feminist leaders remain optimistic about the movement now and its future citing widespread acceptance and growth at the grass roots.

"You can compare the movement today to a kid who shoots up like a bean pole and then takes time filling out," noted one observer.

"We're going into Phase II," said Audrey Colom, president of the National Women's Political Caucus. "The era of confrontation is passing. We're moving to the nuts and bolts technical politics. It's not so dramatic but this is how we are going to win the power. We're digging in for the long haul, learning that success in business or politics depends on a well-developed game plan. Shirley's (Chisholm) and Bellas (Abzug) don't just happen."

If you judge by numbers, the movement is certainly filling out at all levels. The National Organization of Women, founded in 1966, now boasts a membership of 50,000 here and abroad with major growth reported in suburban chapters. The National Women's Political Caucus formed in 1971 with a membership of 271 women, has grown to a political force of 35,000 with organizations in nearly every state. The National Coalition of Labor Union Women, founded in 1974, has a roster of 4,000 members in 45 chapters. Labor union organizations of white collar women office workers, who represent one-third of the female work force, report dramatic growth with almost 23,000 enrolled last year alone.

The growth, however, is more than just in organization numbers. It's in numbers of women gaining political power at all levels. In 1974, according to the NWPC, more women were elected to Congress than ever before in history. There are currently 19 women in the House of Representatives; 610 women in state legislatures, twice as many as in 1969. Also at the state level, Connecticut has a woman governor, Ellen Grasso, the first to be elected on her own merit and not succeeding a husband. New York has a woman lieutenant-governor, Mary Ann Krupsak. Meanwhile, at the local level, women are running for a multitude of offices, from dog catcher to register of wills. In Texas, during the last election, 2,400 women were candidates for office throughout the state, according to a WPC survey.

There's a growing political awareness by all women, in the opinion of Colom. "The growing consumer movement and demonstrations prove that women are becoming more political," she observed. "When a woman goes into a supermarket and refuses to buy beef, she's made a political decision. Look at the meat boycott. It was organized and led by women. It couldn't have happened without the movement."

The years have seen legislative gains in many areas. Domestic workers are now included in minimum wage legislation. In education, Title 9 prohibits discrimination — and discriminatory attitudes. The New York State Department of Education recently issued guidelines for a whole new educational system which bans sexism in everything from books to teacher attitudes. A presidential order prohibits job discrimination on the part of federal contractors. Rape bills, guarding the rights of victims, now exist in several states and are top priority in others. In California, in a recent decision, the judge is now prohibited from a traditional charge to the jury. "Rape is easily charged and hard to defend." In New York City, women have a special number to call and sympathetic officers to help them.

On the labor front there have been gains, too. Thanks to CLUW, many unions have formulated separate women's departments. Such a department is the women's division of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butchers, headed by CLUW founder and vice-president Addie Wyatt.

Noted Wyatt, "For the first time during our lifetime, trade union women are being called on to make policy not only in the union but in every institution in the country. Every woman, activist or not, is being forced to take a good, hard look at herself — why she's working and what she expects out of that work. Often, she'll find the traditional man's job to be like factories. And, these positions pay less than most blue collar jobs. There are a lot of women office workers out there to be mobilized — 12 million of them."

Increasing numbers of women are engaged in top level research at universities. In academia and elsewhere, distorted Victorian concepts of the female, which influenced scientists such as Freud and Darwin, are being discarded. Data revealing role sharing in animal societies is being unearthed and publicized. "Women are discovering once buried research," says Elizabeth Fisher, editor of

NOW president. "It was a start. You can't expect people to shift gears instantaneously. Sexism has been going for 6,000 years."

"The important thing to remember," said suffragette and 80-year-old Pennsylvania activist, Mildred Scott Olmstead, "is that the Mexico City conference was actually held and the women's movement has become international in scope. The movement has made enormous advances in this country. It's been a social revolution. In any revolution, you have the radical and moderate elements. Look at Portugal today. In our day, we had the suffragettes and the suffragists."

The key problem, as most women see it, is in enforcement of legislation benefiting women. "Women have to be there not only in passing bills but in enforcing them," summed up Colom. "We also have to make sure that the women we support are supporters of women's issues."

"Quality — that's what counts," said Olmstead. "We must apply the same high standards to women that we do to men. We must be careful not to defend women just because they are women. We are human beings and, as such, we will have our crooks as well as our good guys."

"Let's hope," said Elsa Puder Supplee, Pennsylvania woman political activist, "that we will grow and that as we grow, we won't lose our sense of kindness." (NEA) easier and pay more money. In that knowledge, we've got strength."

"You can't expect people to shift gears instantaneously. Sexism has been going for 6,000 years."

Office workers are standing up and being counted, too. An independent union, District 65 which has offices in New York, Chicago and Los Angeles, is currently directing its efforts toward organizing women workers at universities and publishing houses. Among recent accomplishments: A new contract at Harper and Row; a pending election at Simon and Schuster. Union spokesperson Margie Albert is enthusiastic about future prospects noting, "As offices become more mechanized they become more

Saved soap bits for sudsy sponge

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — I remember that not too long ago someone wanted to know how to use leftover soap scraps. I found an idea in an old magazine that I think is great. Use a razor blade to slit a small pocket in a hand sponge and then put the leftover soap bits in it. This sudsy sponge will not only be handy in the tub but for fast clean-ups or even scrubbing out the sink. — MRS. E.T.

DEAR POLLY — The following is not original but it might help Desperate with the odor in her refrigerator. Empty refrigerator and wash it all down (sides and shelves) and dry thoroughly. Place a flat box of clean kitty litter on the middle shelf and close the door. Leave for two days and the odor should be gone. — KARMA.

DEAR POLLY — After six years of washing diapers and never being satisfied with the results, I have finally found a way to get them looking like new again. Pre-wash in cold water using ONLY pine oil. Two ounces or less is sufficient. After diapers have been run through entire wash cycle, wash again in the hottest water available, using detergent and chlorine bleach. The oil loosens all spots and stains that would normally stay in if washed in hot water first.

Also, when you have any soft drink left that has gone flat pour into an ice cube tray and freeze. The result is POPS for the kids.

My Pet Peeve is decorative self-sticking wall panels such as cork, mirror tiles, etc. that only stick for a matter of months. As soon as the weather turns humid the glue loses its sticking power and the tiles fall from the wall. We have to reglue ours at least three times a year. If the manufacturers insist on calling them self-sticking then I wish they would invent a stronger glue that would hold up in hot sticky weather. — HELENE.

DEAR POLLY — I recycle plastic bread bags by using them for lunch bags. They are more durable than paper ones and do not become so flimsy when damp.

Another way I save paper is to wrap gifts in shopping or grocery bags and then decorate the outside with clippings from old magazines so they form a collage. This adds a personal touch to the gift and decorating the bags gives the kids something to do on a rainy day so they are ready when needed.

While convalescing from an operation I could not bend down to pick up anything so I found it useful to keep a yardstick with some sticky tape on the bottom nearby. Be sure the sticky side is out. When I dropped any small item it was easy for me to pick it up and I did not have to call for someone to get it for me. — STEPHANIE.

DEAR POLLY — I bake a lot and had trouble when I baked in a tube pan. I put it upside down on top of a soda bottle and it would slide to one side. Now I take the cake out of the oven and clamp snap clothespins to the pan and then turn pan and cake over and let stand on the pins. This way it is always straight and the cake cools more quickly. The pins allow it to stand free so the air circulates under and around it. Hope this helps other cake bakers. Happy Baking! — FLORENCE.

DEAR HELENE — I felt just as you do the other day when one of the supposedly self-sticking adhesive backed picture hangers came off the wall and broke a prized heirloom plate. — POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — After baking cup cakes with no two ever looking the same, I started to use my ice cream scoop to level the cakes just right. After pouring cake batter into the pans I bump the pans up and down on the counter to level them. (Polly's note — I also do this as my mother said it removed the excess air from batter.) — KAREN Polly's problem DEAR POLLY — I have several cans full of bits and pieces of face soap. I would like to make them into regular size bars of soap to save money. How can I do this? — PATRICIA.

DEAR PATRICIA — Of course you can soften the soap bits and press them into cakes, but the above letter seems to me a great idea for making use of leftover soap pieces. — POLLY.

Kansas City jolted by firemen's strike

Kansas City's striking firemen have agreed to go back to work, but only after putting the city through a harrowing four-day ordeal.

Of the more than 200 fires that erupted in the city during this period—well above the average number—firemen are suspected as being responsible for several that were obviously arson.

Kansas City Police Chief Joseph McNamara said the fires were definitely not "random acts, but well-planned arsons, committed by people knowledgeable about fires."

Several firemen were arrested for traffic violations near the scenes of fires, some of them with flammable liquids in their cars.

Besides this, extensive vandalism of fire department equipment occurred. A Kansas City police major reports incidents of oxygen tanks being emptied, water poured into fuel tanks of fire trucks and even fire extinguishers being filled with flammable liquids.

A grand jury will look into the firemen's actions during the strike.

Kansas City, up to now fairly immune to such strikes, is getting a dose of the growing labor anarchy that is increasingly crippling American cities. Besides firemen, police have struck in several cities, not to mention sanitation workers and teachers. Kansas City, Kan., across the river, was hit by a police strike recently.

The strike in Kansas City was clearly illegal from the standpoint of state law, which expressly forbids walkouts by public employees. The city also points out that it had a valid work contract with the firemen at the time of the strike.

It is appalling that the public should be blackmailed by such wanton acts. But it is even more incredible that some of our legislators are pushing to legalize strikes by public employees. These legislators should drop the charade of calling themselves "public" servants and substitute "union" servants.

The illegality of strikes is the only weapon left to Missouri municipalities. Judges should also be equally strict in punishing unions that ignore the law and the public welfare for their own narrow interests.

A conservative view

Election reform act worse than thought

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — When Congress last year went into its post-Watergate convulsions, and coughed up the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1974, many of us said the bill was a bad bill. We didn't know the half of it. On close examination, the law appears to be ten times worse than was thought. It is bad every which way.

Kilpatrick

That conclusion is reinforced by a brief just filed in the Supreme Court on behalf of Sen. James L. Buckley of New York and former Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota. They are the principal plaintiffs in a test case challenging the act. The case will be argued in November and should be decided before Christmas.

Their brief is a masterpiece of dissection. The election reform act had a noble purpose: to promote purity in federal elections. No one can quarrel with that purpose. But the Buckley-McCarthy brief argues convincingly that the law cannot achieve that purpose; and in its clumsy effort to promote purity, the act tramples upon the Constitution.

The act's chief provisions have to do with limitations on campaign contributions and campaign spending. In the name of the Constitution, how can these be upheld? The brief argues:

"The act's expenditure limits are a direct abridgement of the rights of speech and association. The speech which they abridge is that most central to the objectives and essence of the First Amendment and of any democratic society — political discussion by candidates. Speech in the political arena may be unheard unless widely and effectively distributed. To limit the expenditure of money, therefore, is to limit the speech itself. The abridgement challenged here is so fundamental that how the Framers would have regarded it is beyond question. It is palpably unconstitutional."

As the brief argues, in any election campaign the right of free speech is inescapably linked to the raising and spending of money. A right that cannot be effectively exercised is meaningless. It is a nullity. What we are talking about is communication — communication by direct mail, bumper sticker, lapel button, billboard, newspaper advertising, TV commercials, radio announcements, rallies in a park. To limit the means of communication is to limit communication itself. And this the Constitution flatly forbids.

In the plaintiff's view, the reform act has many other constitutional defects. Putting these to one side, the brief argues that the law grossly offends the most elementary principles of fairness and equity.

"The FECA simply does not limit political contributions and expenditures equally. It limits ALL expenditures by challengers but only SOME expenditures by incumbents. And it limits ALL contributions to challengers but only SOME contributions to incumbents. Incumbent officeholders can by their own vote increase the resources at their disposal in ways which are the equivalent of very large contributions. The actual impact of the legislation, therefore, will necessarily make campaigns by challengers less likely to succeed."

In adopting the law, Congress sought to prevent "special interests" from exercising undue influence on campaigns for the House, the Senate and the presidency. Even this purpose, in the plaintiffs' view, is not achieved. The act was so poorly drawn that big business and big labor, through the device of unlimited campaign committees, may continue to spread their largesse around.

What else is wrong with the act? It discriminates against independent candidates. It discriminates against presidential aspirants, such as McCarthy, who have neither national committees nor national conventions. By freezing a limit on expenditures, the act will reduce citizen participation in the political process. By restricting presidential campaign spending state by state, the act tends to control the strategy of presidential campaigns. If the law had been in operation in 1960, John F. Kennedy could not have made his crucial capture of West Virginia.

The Buckley-McCarthy brief runs to more than 200 pages. It is a superlative piece of work; and unless the Supreme Court is deaf to reason, the plaintiffs' arguments should prevail. The reform act was intended as a means toward an end: pure elections. But a good end cannot justify bad means; and that is what we have here.

Art Buchwald

No news in capital, no action

WASHINGTON — A strike of the Washington Post does not only affect a newspaper or a city. It affects the entire country. Very few people realize how this town works. Because of its size, the only way the government can communicate with itself is through Washington's sole morning newspaper.

Buchwald

For example, when Secretary of the Treasury William Simon gets up in the morning he reads the Washington Post to find out what President Ford's latest economic policy is. The other day President Ford said he was for maintaining the personal income tax cut. This was different from what Simon believed President Ford had on his mind. It was also different from what Simon said our tax policy should be. If the secretary of the treasury hadn't read President Ford's latest switch on taxes, he would have gone to his office that morning and ordered his staff to work on a program diametrically opposed to that of the President.

Take the CIA hearings as another example. Every day the CIA tells a different story to the Senate and House committees investigating the organization. It's impossible for the CIA to get the new story out to all its employees on such short notice. So the CIA leaks its new version to the Washington Post the night before, and everyone in the CIA is clued in the following morning. Without a Washington Post to give the CIA's party line, one CIA executive would be telling one story to the Senate and another executive an entirely different story to the House. This would cause chaos with our national security and could even lead to perjury charges, which is something everyone in the government is trying to avoid.

The Department of Agriculture also can have major problems without a morning newspaper. Usually the only way the President finds out how much wheat the United States has sold to the Soviets is through the Washington Post. It isn't that the department doesn't report directly to the White House; it's just that no one in the White House ever bothers to read a Department of Agriculture report until it's too late, and the deal has been made.

The same is true of HEW. The President has strong feelings about spending large sums of money for health, education and welfare since it only contributes to the deficit. But without the Washington Post Mr. Ford has no idea what bills have been passed that he should veto. In fact the fear in the White House is that if the strike continues for any length of time the President might wind up signing a bill passed by Congress, and then the country would be in a whale of a mess.

It isn't only the Administration that is dependent on a morning paper in Washington. Every representative and senator must read it to find out where he stands that day on a particular issue.

Congress has a different energy policy every day. No one knows what it is until he or she reads The Post.

The only way the legislative branch can keep up on foreign affairs is through the columns of the Post. No one knows what mischief Henry Kissinger has done the day before until he reads it in the paper.

The Pentagon is utterly dependent on a morning newspaper. There is no way the military can plan for war unless they find out from the Post who our enemies are. One day it could be Cuba, the next day Panama, the next day Portugal. The Post is also the only source of information for the U.S. Air Force to know what the U.S. Navy is up to, and it's the only way the U.S. Navy can find out what the U.S. Army is planning.

Even foreign governments depend on their Washington morning paper. There isn't an ambassador in town who can provide accurate information to his home government before he reads the society pages of the Washington Post.

The worst fear in this nervous city is that Cambodia, could steal another ship like the Mayaguez, and nobody in Washington would know about it.

Subversive hunters remain on payroll

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — The infamous House Un-American Activities Committee, whose witch hunts terrorized Washington in the 1940s, simply won't let go of the public purse strings.

This was the committee that made Richard Nixon, as a young Communist hunter, a national figure. But because of its irresponsible tactics, the committee became badly discredited.

At first, its members merely changed the name to the House Internal Security Committee and dressed it in sheep's clothes. But this didn't fool the public. So the House voted last January to disband the committee altogether.

Thus the committee disappeared, presto, from public view, unblest and unmourned. But its staff and its files remained behind. The dethroned chairman, Richard Ichord, D-Mo., urged House Judiciary Chairman Peter Rodino, D-N.J., to absorb the entire staff into his own fold and to carry on the investigations.

After months of haggling, Rodino agreed to retain eight of the dispossessed subversive hunters. This will cost the taxpayers $140,244 a year.

But 30 other investigators, research analysts, secretaries and clerks remained on the congressional payroll until June 30. Most of them just hung around, looking sinister, at a cost to the taxpayers of another $236,296 in salaries.

What the Un-American Activities staff really considers un-American, apparently, is cutting off their public funds.

HOFFA'S SUCCESSOR: While the search continues for the body of ex-Teamsters boss Jimmy Hoffa, his successor, Frank Fitzsimmons, is moving into a $270,000 home under the California sun.

Hoffa is believed to be a mobster victim. Fitzsimmons' new house reportedly was built by a company with mobster ties.

The La Costa Land Co., which constructed the Fitzsimmons hacienda, allegedly was established with, mobster money. Title to the house was transferred to Fitzsimmons, according to our investigation, on July 10.

Although Fitzsimmons heads the nation's most powerful union, two subcontractors admitted to us that they used non-union labor on his home. Another company used non-union labor in furnishing some of the concrete for the home.

Fitzsimmons has stated that he wasn't sure whether he would purchase the house. But the architect's plans in our possession are marked "Fitzsimmons' home." The plans were drawn by the San Diego architectural firm of Paul Thoryk and Associates.

A spokesman for La Costa said he was unaware that non-union labor had been used. "All the people we do business with are union," he said. He said the use of non-union labor was a violation of the contract.

We spoke to several subcontractors who said they were paid by La Costa. The spokesman said Fitzsimmons paid La Costa for the home.

Footnote: We made repeated calls to Fitzsimmons' office for his comments. The calls were not returned. We also called his lawyers, who refused to discuss the La Costa project.

BAILING OUT BAILAR: Postmaster General Benjamin Bailar has made repeated trips to Capitol Hill to explain how frugal he is. But there is one sacrifice he is unwilling to make. He doesn't want to give up his big government limousine.

The House, under pressure from President Ford to cut government spending, obligingly has passed legislation that would require 800 government bigwigs to turn in their limousines for smaller, cheaper cars. Only a few top officials will be allowed to retain their present models.

Bailar happens to have a large, gleaming Mercury Marquis. Anything smaller, he feels, would not befit a person of his importance. So two aides slipped up to Capitol Hill last week and insisted that Bailar keep his Marquis.

"The Postmaster General wants his limousine," they told aides of Rep. James Santini, D-Nev.

Bailar also wants to raise the price of stamps to help balance the postal budget.

Footnote: A Postal Service spokesman said the lobbying to save Bailar's limousine was done without his knowledge. The spokesman acknowledged, however, that Bailar thinks "any Postmaster General should have such a car."

POLITICAL PRISONERS: The Moscow chapter of Amnesty International, a worldwide group which keeps tabs on political prisoners, has itself been all but wiped out by Soviet secret police action.

In a private letter to Rep. Donald Fraser, D-Minn., the State Department said Amnesty's Andrei Tverdokhlebov, Sergei Kovalev and Mikola Rudenko have been charged with various political crimes.

The chapter chairman, Valentin Turchin "was interrogated by the police and has since been inactive in the organization." Another leader, Vladimir Albreht "has lost his job (and) other members have been interrogated ... and their homes have been searched."

POISON PLOT: Our investigation of the secret use of poisons by the intelligence community has turned up a bizarre plot to poison the entire North Korean general staff during the Korean war.

An urgent, secret requisition was issued for an "odorless, tasteless" poison that was supposed to be slipped into the food of the North Korean high command in Pyongyang.

Their exclusive mess hall was shared by Chinese and Russian advisers who also would have been wiped out by the poison.

The plot was concocted in the early 1950s at a time when American soldiers were dying on Korean battlefields. Its originator, Maj. William Burke, now a major general, was chief of guerrilla activity as "Leopard Base," a hideaway headquarters on Paengnyong-do Island.

He supervised teams of Korean infiltrators who, using the code names "Donkey" and "Wolfpack," operated deep inside North Korea. One day, they reported that they had planted an agent in the mess hall of the top enemy command.

The enterprising major saw this as an opportunity to eliminate North Korea's entire military leadership in one operation. He dispatched a top-secret message to the Eighth Army in South Korea, requesting poison for the project.

The request was rejected. Apparently, no effective, undetectable poisons were available. The U.S. command also feared poison reprisals against themselves and howls from Moscow over the sudden demise of their advisors.

The swashbuckling Burke accepted the verdict. But a few weeks later, as a spoof, he requested a large amount of rat poison, claiming the rats were eating his supplies. The Eighth Army, suspecting that Burke's rats were really North Korean officers, turned him down again.

Estrogen lotion reduces baldness, physician says

By C.G. McDANIEL
AP Science Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — A lotion made from the female hormone estrogen reduces baldness in men when it is rubbed into their scalps, according to a New York City physician who says he has successfully experimented with the treatment for the past decade.

Estrogen cannot be taken by men internally without certain undesirable side effects, such as enlarged breasts. But Dr. Edward M. Settel says when estrogen is applied externally, it reduces hair fallout in men and stimulates hair growth in bald areas.

Settel reported the results of his experimentation in a scientific exhibit at the annual meeting of the American Academy of Family Physicians this week. He said the treatment is still in the experimental stage and is not ready for commercial distribution.

Of the 748 men he has treated in 10 years, 90 per cent had "markedly less fallout" after using the estrogen lotion and 68 per cent showed improved hair growth, he said.

"I don't make the claim that you're going to grow back as much hair as you had when you were 15 years of age," Settel said in an interview. But he said some hair does grow back on the heads of men with a hereditary condition called pattern baldness.

He said 45 per cent of American males have pattern baldness, caused by an oversupply of the male hormone androgen. His treatment tries to balance the androgen excess with the female hormone.

Estrogen, which does not get into the bloodstream when applied in a topical cream, is related to growth of hair on the scalp, while androgen is responsible for facial and body hair, Settel said.

That's why balding men may have an ample crop of chest hair.

Settel's estrogen cream, which has a lanolin base, is massaged nightly into areas of the scalp where hair has disappeared but which still have living follicles. A shampoo designed to reduce hair breakage is used three times a week.

He said younger men in his study showed a greater increase in growth of hair, with 74 per cent in the 17-30 age group showing improvement and 47 per cent showing improvement in the 51-70 age group.

Vasectomy planned for amorous lion

BROOKFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Lord Sparks, the lusty lion, has become too amorous for the economic good of Chicago's Brookfield Zoo.

That's why a vasectomy is in store for the potent sire of 19 cubs, a zoo spokesman said Monday.

"He will be able to do his thing but will be unable to fertilize," said Dr. Gilbert Boese.

"Doing this to Lord Sparks is an economic move as well as helping in a space problem at the zoo," Boese said. "It costs $900 a year just to feed one lion."

Washington soil analyzed

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Scientists plugged some holes in the White House lawn last week, completing an 18-month soil mapping project in which the District of Columbia became the first large city to have a complete earth analysis of its very own.

The project was described in a current issue of "Soil Conservation" published today by the U.S. Soil Conservation Service, an agency of the Agriculture Department. However, the White House involvement was not mentioned since the article went to press before the survey was completed.

Anne Zack, who wrote the article, said it had been hoped that a brief ceremony marking the "last acre" of mapping could have been held at the White House. But this was canceled, presumably because of recent security around President Ford.

The U.S. Soil Conservation Service has been analyzing soil samples and making maps showing what they are since the turn of the century. About 56 per cent of the country's land area has been tested and mapped, and SCS hopes to finish the job by 1998.

Partial soil mapping has been done in many cities or else they have been included in larger areas for study, Miss Zack told a reporter. But the 69 square miles of the District of Columbia — 44,160 acres — are the first representing a large city to be mapped in detail according to types of soil and their deficiencies.

The project was born almost seven years ago when students at an elementary school found that they needed soil survey information to plan an ecology project. The National Park Service later asked USDA to come up with detailed information, leading to the full-scale project.

If a detailed survey had been made long ago, it could have led to some different scenes for tourists around Washington, D.C., officials said.

For example, the Japanese cherry trees first planted along the Tidal Basin in 1912 might have been put elsewhere. A soil survey "would have shown that the water table there is too high for the trees" and other sites might have been chosen or else their present location changed in some way so that the trees could grow better.

James C. Patterson, a research agronomist in the National Park Service, said that as a result the cherry trees have had a hard time surviving and that many have had to be replaced over the years.

Miss Zack said that although SCS has mapped urban soils since 1966, the D.C. survey will be the first one published with the city dweller in mind. She said it will be available next year as part of the bicentennial observance.

"Unlike most other surveys, it will feature sections on landscaping, pollution-tolerant plants, home gardens and grasses for lawns," her article said.

Most of the city of Calcutta, India, was destroyed by a cyclone on Oct. 1, 1864, which killed an estimated 70,000.

Pork, beef prices up slightly

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Retail pork and beef prices increased in nearly all categories this week, although there was less than a penny fluctuation in wholesale beef and pork prices, the Missouri Farm Bureau Shoppers' Guide reported Monday.

Blade roast still seems the best beef buy of the week at 97 cents per pound, down three cents from the average price a week ago.

All other beef cuts increased from one to six cents, however, with T-bone steak receiving the largest boost to $2.24 per pound.

One cent increases were reflected in the prices of arm roast at $1.30 and rib steak at $1.85.

Sirloin steak average per pound price was $2.06, a two-cent hike from a week ago. Round steak jumped three cents to $1.76 and ground beef increased four cents to $4.84 per pound.

Pork blade roast led all pork cuts in price increases going to $1.55 from the $1.49 per pound average price of last week.

The average price in Missouri for a shank portion of ham was $1.14, a four cent boost, while the butt portion's $1.22 was two cents over last week's. Center cut chops were going for $2.06 per pound, a three cent increase while pork steak increased a penny to $1.56.

Chicken prices fell, according to the farm bureau report.

Whole fryers were selling for 57 cents per pound and cut up chickens were 60 cents, a three-cent drop in both categories.

Milk prices continued their upward movement, with two per cent milk increasing four cents to $1.44 a gallon and whole milk increasing a penny to $1.52.

Egg prices also are on the rise, with grade A extra large selling for $1.77 a dozen, two cents more than last week.

Prices for grade A large eggs fell three cents to $1.73 a dozen and one cent for grade A medium to $1.66 a dozen.

The price of a one and one-half pound loaf of white bread dropped two cents to $1.53 for a statewide average, while potatoes continued to rise.

A 10-pound bag of red potatoes cost $1.35 statewide, a four-cent increase over last week.

A five-pound bag of cane sugar fell five cents to $1.37.

SLA prepared written philosophy

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Members of the Symbionese Liberation Army spent much of their 19 months underground attempting to compile a written explanation of their philosophy, according to a source close to the investigation.

The source said investigators have not yet made their way through the mountain of documents confiscated from the apartment where Bill and Emily Harris were living when they were arrested Sept. 18.

Patricia Hearst, who was kidnapped by the SLA on Feb. 4, 1974, and later said she had joined the terrorist organization, was arrested the same day in another apartment along with Wendy Yoshimura, wanted on federal explosives charges.

The SLA material which was carted from the Harris apartment by the FBI on Friday includes "some personal stuff," but there is no way to determine who wrote any of it, the source said.

There are no signatures on any of the pages and they are not filed in any identifiable order, the source said.

There is no elaboration in the documents about the kidnapping of Miss Hearst, the source said. "There is nothing in there that says, 'I put on a wig and black makeup and kidnapped her.'"

Witnesses said two black men and a woman were the abductors.

The Harris, awaiting trial in Los Angeles on state assault and kidnapping charges, are under investigation in connection with the abduction, which remains a crime with which no one has been charged.

There were these developments in the case Monday:

—A hearing scheduled for today on Miss Hearst's competence to take the witness stand for cross-examination in a bail hearing on federal bank robbery charges was postponed indefinitely.

—Miss Hearst's original attorney, Terence Hallinan, resigned from the defense team but declined to comment on the reason.

—Miss Yoshimura's case was postponed in Alameda County Superior Court in Oakland after her attorney said he wanted more time to examine the 3-year-old charges against her.

—A gunman attempting to rob a Greenwich Village bank branch in New York City took 10 hostages and demanded the release of Miss Hearst, Miss Yoshimura and the Harris in return for the hostages' freedom. He later said the demand "just popped into my head" and that he was not connected with the SLA.

—A judge ordered Miss Hearst to appear in Los Angeles on the state charges she faces with the Harris, but no date was specified.

Psychiatrists who have been examining Miss Hearst and were scheduled to report to the court today on results of their tests said Monday they are not finished with their work.

The hearing on whether Miss Hearst is competent to be cross-examined on the affidavit she filed claiming she was tortured and brainwashed by the SLA was postponed indefinitely until the psychiatric examinations are completed.

Jays-Kewpies clash tops schedule

'Big' games on area prep slate

A good portion of the big conference match-ups are scheduled this week in area high school football.

Heading the list of games is the annual clash between Jefferson City and Columbia Hickman at Jefferson City. The game will probably decide the championship of the Central Missouri Conference.

Jefferson City closes out its CMC schedule with the contest. The Jays are 2-0 in league play and 4-0 overall.

For the Kewpies, winners of four of their five games so far this season, it will mark the opening of conference play. Columbia has captured the last three Central Missouri Conference gridiron championships.

In the I-70 Conference, Wellington (3-0, 5-0) travels to Sweet Springs, which is also undefeated in both league and non-conference action.

After a surprise loss last week to Versailles, Camdenton will be out to regain some of its status in the Tri-County Conference.

The Lakers travel to Osage Beach to face the School of the Osage Indians.

But the big match-up in the Tri-County loop is at Versailles, where the Tigers play host to rival Eldon. Versailles is outing. However, the Mustangs have one tie on their conference record.

The other Tri-County Conference contender, California, has a non-league date with Montgomery City.

Columbia Rock Bridge, ranked in the top spot in the Missouri Class 3A football poll by the Missouri Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association, will face its toughest league contest of the season in North Central Conference play. The Bruins play host to Marshall. Both teams are undefeated. Rock Bridge is 4-0 overall; Marshall is 5-0.

Harrisonville and Pleasant Hill continue on their collision course this week in the West Central Conference. Both face also-rans in the WCC. Harrisonville hosts Clinton, and Pleasant Hill will be on the road at Raymore-Peculiar.

Landry snowed under

Detroit Lions' quarterback Greg Landry is smothered by Dallas' Randy White (54) for a six-yard loss in the final quarter of Monday night's National Football League in the Lions' new home — Pontiac Stadium. Landry fumbled on the play and White recovered for the Cowboys on the Detroit 16-yard line. The sack set up Dallas' final touchdown in a 36-10 romp.

Cowboys christen Lions' home with 36-10 win

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Pontiac Stadium's majestic air-inflated dome didn't spring any leaks, but the Detroit Lions' bubble was burst by Roger Staubach's shotgun offense and slingshot arm.

A near-capacity crowd of 79,784 gave the Dallas Cowboys resounding boos when they were introduced before Monday night's National Football League contest against Detroit.

But the boos that reverberated off the newly raised fiberglass roof of the plush $55.7 million stadium at the end of the nationally televised 36-10 Cowboy victory were for the Lions.

Detroit seemed helpless as Staubach turned a 10-9 third-period Lion advantage into a Cowboy runaway.

Coryell feels Redskins will want some revenge

ST. LOUIS (AP) — St. Louis Cardinals Coach Don Coryell says he has no doubt the Washington Redskins will be seeking his team's scalp next week.

And the same objective would apply, Coryell said Monday, whether the Redskins had won or lost their Sunday National Football League game against the Philadelphia Eagles.

As it turned out the Redskins were upset 26-10, dropping them into a tie with the Cardinals at 2-1 in National Conference East standings.

"But no matter whether they'd won or lost they'd be ready for us because we beat them twice last year," insisted Coryell, whose team will vie at Washington next Monday night.

"I thought Washington would beat Philadelphia. Yet I have respect for Philadelphia," Coryell said. "As we all know, in this league anybody can beat anybody else."

A Cards casualty from their 26-14 victory Sunday over the New York Giants was left guard Bob Young, who suffered a knee injury in the opening half.

Coryell said Young may be sidelined for as long as two weeks and will be replaced against the Redskins by Greg Kindie, a second-year player.

Meanwhile, his defensive mates, led by 250-pound tackle Jethro Pugh, sacked Lion quarterback Greg Landry so many times he almost got artificial grass stains on his Honolulu blue pants.

The youth-infused Cowboys ran their record to 3-0 and sit alone atop the Eastern Division of the National Conference.

Detroit, considered a cellar candidate in preseason by most critics, had beaten Green Bay and Atlanta but now is 2-1 and second in the Central Division behind unbeaten Minnesota.

Sunday the Lions host Chicago while the Cowboys will be at New York against the Giants.

"I was impressed with the Lions," Dallas Coach Tom Landry said, obviously trying to ease Detroit's pain. "They played us real close in the first half and, except for hitting a couple big plays, the game could have been much closer."

The "couple" big plays included:

—A bad Detroit snap on punt formation that set up Dallas' go-ahead touchdown in the third quarter.

—A 29-yard draw play by Charles Young of the Cowboys, followed by Young's circus catch for a 42-yard touchdown pass from Staubach on the first play of the fourth quarter.

—A 46-yard halfback pass from Robert Newhouse to Drew Pearson for another stunning Cowboy fourth-period TD.

—A 37-yard scoring aerial from Staubach to Pearson after the Cowboys recovered a Landry fumble at the Lion 16 and lost 25 yards on penalties.

"That bad snap was the turning point as far as I'm concerned," Lions' Coach Rick Forzano insisted. "We had momentum up to that point. We had 'em. But that snap turned the whole thing around."

Richard Hicks, the center on kicks, snapped low and punter Herman Weaver was run out of bounds at the Lion 33, automatically turning the ball over to Dallas. Pearson, who caught six passes for 188 yards, grabbed a 30-yard toss from Staubach and two plays later Young, a No. 1 draft choice last year from North Carolina State, plunged over from the one.

Young's 42-yard TD catch came on the next Dallas possession. He tipped it with one hand, bobbled it for a few yards and then hauled it in over cornerback Levi Johnson, who was burned several times by Staubach.

Tuesday pairings

Pittsburgh rookie southpaw John Candelaria (left) will go against Cincinnati's Gary Nolan in the third game of the National League Playoffs tonight in Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Stadium. Cincinnati can wrap up the best-of-five series with a victory, after winning the two openers in Cincinnati over the weekend.

Bucs put hopes on rookie hurler

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds can clinch their third National League title of this decade here tonight and take another step toward the World Series triumph that has eluded them for 35 years.

"World Series? I'll think about that if we get there," Reds' Manager Sparky Anderson said as he awaited the third and perhaps final game with Pittsburgh.

The Reds, who'll pitch Gary Nolan against Pirate rookie John Candelaria, dominated two games in Cincinnati, 8-3 and 6-1.

They pounded the ball at a .348 clip, allowed just 13 Pirate hits, and stole 10 bases in 10 tries. Joe Morgan's four steals and the Reds' team total are already records for a league playoff.

The Pirates, league leaders in home runs, have yet to hit one in the playoffs. They're batting .203 as a team, and none of their pitchers has lasted more than four innings.

"We expect that to change here," Manager Danny Murtaugh said Monday from his rocking chair.

A reporter asked him what was so special about playing at home. Can Babushka Power make that much of a difference?

"I'm stretching that because we did horse manure out there," said Murtaugh.

"Give me another excuse and I'll use it too. We're running out of excuses and time."

Cincinnati won its last World Series in 1940. That was seven years before Reds' catcher Johnny Bench was born.

"The series is the goal of every team, but there's no way we can look past the Pirates," said Bench, one of the few Reds without a hot bat. He has one hit so far in the playoffs.

The Reds lost to the Yankees in the 1961 World Series, and they were disappointed by Baltimore in 1970 and Oakland in 1972.

Holtzman gets only 2 days rest

OAKLAND (AP) — For the Oakland A's, whose three-year championship reign could end tonight, it's time to gamble.

"I might be really sharp, or I might not be able to throw the ball 60 feet," admitted Ken Holtzman, the left-hander who lost the American League playoff opener in Boston and will be pitching against the Red Sox tonight with just two days rest.

"The more I thought about it, the more I felt we just had to go with our best," said A's Manager Alvin Dark, whose world champs are down 2-0 in the best-of-five series.

"If we lose now, there's no tomorrow," he added, using baseball's most worn-out post-season axiom.

He chose 18-game winner Holtzman over right-hander Dick Bosman, 11-6, who was the tentative third-game starter as of late Sunday.

Holtzman, who will face Rick Wise, 19-12, was knocked out in the seventh inning of Saturday's 7-1 loss at Boston. Bosman's last start was 10 days ago and he made a brief relief appearance in the playoff opener.

Boston Manager Darrell Johnson watched his team go through a relaxed and restricted workout Monday at the Oakland Coliseum while Dark wrestled with the A's pitching dilemma.

"We didn't know until four minutes before game time Sunday who they'd be pitching. So why should I worry 24 hours in advance?" Johnson asked as his players played catch and ran in foul territory and the outfield.

The infield remained covered to protect it from a light, steady rain. Neither team took batting practice and only a handful of A's loosened up.

State Fair drops first of season

OVERLAND PARK, Kan. — State Fair Community College suffered its first girls volleyball loss of the season here Monday night, losing in straight sets, 15-6, 15-1, to Johnson County Community College.

The match was a Greater Kansas City Community College Conference contest.

Tuesday afternoon, State Fair was scheduled to travel to Concordia for a non-conference match against St. Paul's College.

State Fair has a record of 4-1; Johnson County moved to 10-0.

3-year probation for Clemson basketball

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Clemson University's basketball program was slapped with a three-year probation today by the National Collegiate Athletic Association because of approximately 50 rule violations, most of which involved illegal recruiting.

Clemson's football program received a public reprimand for one violation, but was not placed on probation.

Clemson has scheduled a news conference today to discuss the violations, which were disclosed by the NCAA Monday night.

The violations occurred while Bates Locke was head basketball coach at Clemson. Locke is not mentioned by name in the NCAA report, but is referred to as "the former head basketball coach."

Locke left the school this spring, while the NCAA investigation was in progress, and is now an assistant coach with the Buffalo Braves of the National Basketball Association.

"This case involves serious violations spanning several years and includes significant benefits and inducements to prospective and enrolled student-athletes," said Arthur R. Reynolds, chairman of the NCAA Committee on Infractions.

"Many of the violations in this case indicate a disregard for NCAA regulations on the part of certain former athletic department staff members and athletic representatives," Reynolds added. "It is likely that more severe penalties would have been imposed without assurances from the institution that the university intends to comply fully with the governing regulations in the future."

Clemson was penalized for violations involving financial aid and extra benefits to student-athletes, institutional control, ethical conduct, recruiting, tryouts, entertainment, pre-college enrollment expenses, transportation, out-of-season basketball practice and a questionable practice related to the university's certification of compliance with NCAA regulations.

The sanctions did not extend to the athletes involved in the violations, many of whom were understood to have cooperated with the NCAA in its investigation.

Five of the charges of illegal recruiting reportedly involved Moses Malone, the schoolboy star who jumped directly to the pros a year ago. Four of those charges were upheld.

The three-year probation means Clemson's basketball team will be barred from post-season competition and will not be able to appear on a televised game under NCAA control. The team will be permitted to compete in the Atlantic Coast Conference championship playoffs.

Clemson also will be restricted to two basketball grants-in-aid instead of the usual six for 1976-77, and to three for 1977-78.

Moore can't dwell on Wis. too long

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Kansas Coach Bud Moore says his "head is spinning" over the Jayhawks' football game Saturday with Nebraska.

"I celebrated the victory over Wisconsin about five minutes," Moore said Monday "before it dawned on me we had to play Nebraska this week."

"I'm trying to figure out what we can do. It's going to be difficult for our young players. We haven't come close to playing the type of team we're playing in Nebraska."

Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne said the undefeated Huskers "are anxious to get started with Big Eight Conference teams. We can't see we have any breathers from here on out."

"Kansas has been a real surprise and gotten better every week. At this point, we have great respect for them. This will be our first appearance against the wishbone this season, and it presents some problems."

Osborne announced that Vince Ferragamo, who came off the bench to pass for one touchdown and guide the Huskers to three more TDs in last week's 31-16 triumph over Miami of Florida, would start at quarterback against the Jayhawks.

Coach Barry Switzer of Oklahoma, eyeing the two close calls his unbeaten Sooners have had the last two weeks, said his club is "not the team we were in '74. We don't have the offensive line."

Oklahoma goes to Dallas Saturday for its traditional game with Texas.

Jim Stanley, the Oklahoma State coach, said the Cowboys would "have to play a super game to win" at Missouri Saturday. "We expect them to throw up an eight-man front but our offense ought to be able to work against it."

Missouri Coach Al Onofrio noted that the Cowboys' offense "has been scoring a lot of points, and it's a problem when you have to defense against two different formations."

Two injured Missouri stars, tailback Tony Galbreath and defensive ace Keith Morrissey, are questionable. Onofrio said their situation is a day-to-day matter.

KU's Cromwell again named back of week

KANSAS CITY (AP) — What could Nolan Cromwell possibly do for an encore?

The answer: Do it again.

Well, the newest football flash at Kansas didn't quite duplicate his 294-yard rushing performance of Sept. 27 in Saturday's 41-7 upset victory over Wisconsin but he gained 187 yards on 20 carries and scored two touchdowns.

This, a panel of sports writers decided Monday, was good enough to make Cromwell the unanimous choice as the Big Eight Conference offensive player for the second consecutive week.

Jimbo Elrod, Oklahoma end, was selected defensive player of the week for his 19 tackles and the harassment he dealt Colorado in the Sooners' 21-20 triumph over the Buffs Saturday.

Gremlins, Tigers square off in volleyball tourney

GREEN RIDGE — Sedalia Sacred Heart and Sedalia Smith-Cotton will meet in the second round of action here Tuesday night as the result of opening-round victories in the Green Ridge Invitational Girls Volleyball Tournament.

Sacred Heart downed Warsaw, 6-15, 15-7, 15-9; and Smith-Cotton won its first-round match over Northwest (Hughesville), 15-6, 13-15, 15-13. Tuesday night's meeting between the two Sedalia high schools will be the first ever in volleyball. The contest is scheduled to get underway at 5:30 p.m.

In other first-round action, the Smith-Cotton junior varsity lost to Stover in straight sets, 15-0, 15-1. The Jayvee Tigers were later eliminated from the 12-team tournament losing to Santa Fe (Alma) in the consolation quarterfinals, 11-15, 15-9, 15-7.

Cole Camp dropped Santa Fe into the losers' bracket, 15-0, 15-6.

In the night's other game, Warsaw won over Northwest in a consolation game, 10-15, 15-9, 15-5.

In addition to tonight's Smith-Cotton, Sacred Heart match-up, Smithton meets Concordia in first-round action at 6:15 p.m. and St. Paul's (Concordia) faces host Green Ridge in a first-round game at 7 p.m.

A total of six games are on tap on Tuesday's schedule.

Liver ailment places cage career of Webster in doubt

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Marvin Webster, the No. 1 draft pick of the American Basketball Association, will miss the 1975-76 season because of an apparent liver ailment and "may never play again," the Denver Nuggets announced.

Nuggets Coach Larry Brown said Webster, the 7-foot-1 center nicknamed "the Human Eraser," had been undergoing tests in a Denver hospital since Sept. 29. He was a two-time winner of the college division Player of the Year award while at Morgan State.

Brown said tests were continuing, but preliminary diagnoses pointed to a liver problem. Webster suffered from hepatitis during his junior year in college.

"It's a blow to the team to lose a 7-footer who you figured would be strong in the post position," said Brown, here for an exhibition game against Virginia. "But it's a terrible thing to happen to a young man."

The Nuggets had counted heavily on Webster and another top rookie, university division Player of the Year David Thompson of North Carolina State.

The signing of the two most highly sought-after college players from the 1975 crop was seen as evidence that the ABA was on solid ground and could compete for top talent with the older, rival National Basketball Association.

Last month the Nuggets, confident of their rookie talent, applied for membership in the NBA as an expansion club.

Webster averaged 19.9 rebounds a game at Morgan State and his career total of 2,267 rebounds was the second highest in college basketball history.

However, his brief pro career has been plagued with physical problems. He chipped a bone in his right foot during the summer and missed Denver's rookie workouts in mid-August.

He reported to the pre-season camp but was unable to practice regularly and complained of constant fatigue.

Ohio St. replaces Okla. Sooners

Barry Switzer, coach of the defending national champions, says Oklahoma is "not the team we were in '74" and it showed today when the Sooners dropped from first place to second behind Ohio State in The Associated Press college football ratings.

The Buckeyes of Ohio State impressed the voters and a national television audience with a 41-20 rout of UCLA and received 47 first-place votes and 1,178 of a possible 1,240 points from a nationwide panel of 62 sports writers and broadcasters.

Meanwhile, Oklahoma, which was hard-pressed to beat winless Miami of Florida 20-17 a week ago, had an even closer battle with Colorado, winning 21-20 when the Buffs missed an extra-point kick with 1:23 to play. The Sooners received 14 first-place votes and 1,072 points.

Last week, Oklahoma received 30 first-place ballots to Ohio State's 26 and outpolled

"I'm not disappointed we're No. 2," Switzer said. "I'm disappointed with the way we played and the mistakes we made. If you go on Woody Hayes' point system, I guess they deserve to be No. 1. I read where he said they ought to be No. 1 because they scored more points than we did."

Southern California held on to third place by defeating Iowa 27-16. The Trojans received the other first-place vote and 975 points. Nebraska remained fourth with 858 points following a 31-16 triumph over Miami, Fla.

Texas moved up from seventh to fifth by routing Utah State 61-7. The Longhorns supplanted Missouri, which dropped from fifth to 12th in the wake of a 31-7 loss to Michigan. Texas A&M stayed in sixth place with a 10-0 blanking of Kansas State.

Boss's wife exploits secretary

Dear Ann Landers: Does the boss's wife have the right to come to his office and ask his secretary to type six and seven letters every time she feels like it? Her excuse is, "My handwriting is terrible. I hope you don't mind."

I have a full work load as it is. Often I eat lunch at my desk and come in half an hour early to get the essentials finished by quitting time.

This brassy woman has never given me so much as a handkerchief for these "small favors." Frankly, I'm fed up but I don't know what to do about it. I love my job, have 15 years seniority and my boss is wonderful. Any advice? — Purple Veins In Portland

Dear Purple: Some secretaries enjoy doing special favors for the boss's wife — and gracious wives repay such favors with an occasional gift. But obviously you feel exploited — and I agree you have been.

Simply tell Mr. Wonderful you'd appreciate it if he'd ask his wife to take her correspondence elsewhere because your daily work load is all you can handle. The message to her should come from him, not you.

Dear Ann Landers: I refer respectfully to the letter from the man who could not sign his name in the presence of others and your reply: "You've got one of a kind there, Lady."

Your response was not in keeping with the high standards I have come to expect from your advice, Miss Landers.

The victim of the problem described is not all that rare. Moreover, the man can be helped if he seeks out a psychologist specializing in systematic desensitization. This technique has been widely used, and with great success, for problems of that type. I am also pleased to tell you it doesn't take years of costly psychoanalysis, as a great many people who have been helped testify.

You owe it to those who read your column and believe in you to get this message across promptly. — Here's Your Second Chance

Dear Fried: My response ("You've got one of a kind there, Lady") was definitely off the beam. I received half a bag of mail from readers who confided that either they or a close relative was similarly afflicted — and it was hell.

After checking on your advice, I feel like handing you my day's pay. I urge all individuals who have difficulty signing their names while being observed to seek immediate help from a psychologist who specializes in desensitization. It will not work 100 per cent of the time, but I have checked out the procedure and the results have been excellent. It's certainly worth trying.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a new bride — married only three months. My problem is unusual but I hope you can give me some advice. It's my husband. He insists on helping with the housework every spare minute he has.

Our apartment is small and actually there isn't that much to do. I'm a good housekeeper and I don't need his help. I'd much rather see him relax.

He says, "I like housework. It's fun. Let me enjoy myself." Any advice? — Germ Free In Galveston

Dear Gal: Let Mr. Clean do his thing. When you have a child or two you'll be glad to have his help. Such virtues in a man should never be discouraged, dear. He sounds like a jewel to me.

What kind of wedding goes with today's new life styles? Does anything go? Ann Landers' completely new "The Bride's Guide" tells what's right for today's weddings. Taiwan factories humming

By PHIL BROWN
Associated Press Writer

TAIPEI, Taiwan (AP) — Factories are humming again at pre-recession rates on this Nationalist Chinese island and Economics Minister Y.S. Sun says the secret to this was in keeping down the prices of Taiwan's goods and the wages of its workers.

Thus goods stamped "Made in the Republic of China" — Taiwan's official name — remained competitive and new orders are coming in, Sun added.

His deputy said another factor is that the younger generation on Taiwan is shucking off a traditional attitude among many Chinese to scorn physical labor. Youths of modern Taiwan are willing to engage in physical labor, as opposed to mental work, because motives of self-achievement and profit have caught on among them, the deputy added.

Industrial production began to plunge in May 1974 and last November's output was down about 30 per cent, but a rapid climb began last March and production now is back to pre-recession figures, Sun said in an interview.

Some in the armies of young women who man Taiwan's big electronics and textile factories went home to the countryside when employment slumped last year. They found the agricultural economy booming, and decided not to return to their factories, leaving those industries with a labor shortage now, Nationalist officials said.

Surface indicators of Taiwan's development include new high-rise buildings sprouting in Taipei, the capital; nine television sets for each 10 families in Taipei; and one set for each two families elsewhere on Taiwan; more than 122,500 cars and 1,437,000 motorcycles clogging the roads, compared to 15,100 cars and 68,200 motorcycles 10 years ago.

Per capita income for Taiwan's 16 million people was $697 last year, up from $177 in 1965 when the population was 12.6 million. The figure is one of the best in Asia but still well below the U.S. figure of about $4,700 and the Japanese per capita income of about $4,000.

Taiwan's economy grew at an average rate of about 9 per cent until 1974, when it dropped to 0.6 per cent. Sun predicted growth of about 3 per cent this year.

"Last year we knew if we put too much pressure on to suppress inflation it would slow the growth rate. We made the decision to suppress inflation. It worked," Sun said.

Government figures showed wholesale prices dropped 4.45 per cent from July 1974 to July 1975 because of lower prices for food and some industrial items, but consumer prices climbed 6.41 per cent because of increases for postage and medical care.

"How to get extra labor is our problem at the moment," Sun added. "That is the most important reason we are not pushing exports too fast. If we hire more people, that will jack up the wage rate further."

At wit's end

No letters

By ERMA BOMBECK

At the end of August as we said good-bye to our college-bound son at the airport. I took him aside and said, "This is it, big guy. For the first time in your life you are on your own. You are free. Free to accept your own responsibility for your own actions. Free to budget your own time. Free to make your own mistakes. You owe Daddy and me nothing. From this moment on you are captain of your own destiny."

"What are you doing?" he asked as I slipped a string around his neck.

"This is a mitten string, and it has a pencil attached to each end. If you don't write us at least once a week, I'm filing a missing persons report!"

A few days ago my husband asked, "How long has it been since we've gotten a letter from What's-his-name?"

"Your son?"

"That's the one."

"Forty-four days and I'm worried. I really am."

"Face it. He hates to write letters."

"It's your fault. You've been a teacher too long. I remember the letter he wrote from camp one summer. You corrected the spelling, gave him a C and sent it back."

"That's not true. It was a D." Now, you readers may draw any conclusions you like, but I contend a mother is more realistic about her children than fathers. Below is an example.

Mother: "I think he hasn't written because he is cracking the books day and night. He is too compulsive and weak to hold a pencil."

Father: "He's partying."

Mother: "Perhaps he dropped his Bible on his foot and can't get to the post office to mail a letter."

Father: "His room has been condemned and him with it."

Mother: "Maybe he witnessed a murder and has to lay low."

Father: "He probably had less than 35 cents in his pocket and got picked up on the campus for vagrancy."

Mother: "He probably loaned out all of his personalized stationery."

Father: "He probably forgot our name and doesn't know how to spell 'occupant'."

Mother: "I know something dreadful has happened to him or he would write."

Father: "I got it. He broke his mitten string."

Mother: "Now that's the most sensible thing you've said so far."

Most of nation had wet summer

WASHINGTON (AP) — If your golfing and picnics were often rained out last summer, you had lots of company. The summer of '75 was a wet one for most Americans because of an abnormally strong flow of air from the Pacific Ocean across the northern United States and southern Canada.

And thanks to Hurricane Eloise, the fall of '75 already is shaping up as a wet one for the northeast United States.

Weather Service meteorologists say the strong westerly air flow last summer sent more than the usual number of storm systems tramping from Oregon and Washington across the border states and the Great Lakes States and into Pennsylvania, New York and southern New England.

Rainfall also was higher than normal through the Southeast and southern plains states — South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Missouri, Kansas and eastern Colorado.

Only in scattered regions was summer rainfall substantially below normal. The northern tip of Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire were drier than normal as were narrow strips across southern Virginia and northern North Carolina into central Tennessee and from southeastern Wyoming through central Nebraska into northwestern Missouri.

In the Southwest, normally sparse precipitation was thinner than usual, particularly in Arizona. Over-all, however, areas of low and normal precipitation were smaller than areas of heavy rainfall.

Storms spawned by Hurricane Eloise along the mid-Atlantic seaboard Sept. 23-27 dumped up to 14 inches of rain in some areas. Data from the Weather Service's office of hydrology pinpoints the highest Eloise rainfall of 14 inches in the Harrisburg, Pa., area.

Other areas where rainfall exceeded 10 inches during the four days of storms range from south of Washington, D.C. through Maryland, Pennsylvania and New Jersey to the New York City area.

Weather Service long-range forecasters can't explain the reasons for the strong westerly air flow during the summer that originated in the Pacific and affected weather all across the United States.

Bus overturns at Lexington; injuries avoided

LEXINGTON, Mo. (AP) — Several members of the Lexington High School freshman football team suffered bumps and bruises Monday evening when a school bus overturned near here.

Vice-principal Merle Gibson, who was driving the bus, said several of the 27 youths aboard were treated at Lexington Memorial Hospital "for bumps and bruises."

Gibson said he took to the ditch rather than risk hitting an oncoming grain truck on narrow Lafayette County Route O south of here.

Fears of New York's fall hurt local municipalities

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — While officials still talk about containing the impact of a New York City financial default, fears of such a collapse already have rippled through the tax-exempt bond markets.

Massachusetts, Connecticut, California and Oregon are among the states that have been forced to pay higher rates because of investor doubt and caution arising from New York City's plight.

More problems very likely lie ahead for the rest of this year and into 1976 because of the need of housing agencies in several states to refinance maturing debt. Some bondmen have doubts about the agencies' ability to do so.

The fact is that the so-called municipal bond market is in serious trouble, and the limited amount of financing it can accommodate probably will have to be done at record high costs.

In the past eight months the typical $1,000 state or city bond has declined in market value by nearly $185. That is, retail buyers of the bonds are willing to pay only $815 for paper with a face value of $1,000.

The effect of this is to raise the price that governments must pay for the money they borrow. As the price of a bond declines, the interest costs rise relatively.

Early this year the average price municipalities paid for their money was 6.32 per cent, based on the Dow Jones municipal bond yield index. Two weeks ago it had risen to 7.59 per cent. Last week it jumped to 7.78 per cent.

At those rates, municipalities might find themselves building even bigger problems for the future, and so many of them are likely to be forced into postponing new projects.

That option, however, isn't open to those cities, states and agencies whose existing debt is coming due and needs to be refinanced. This is especially true of state housing agencies, which must refinance hundreds of millions of dollars within the next year.

Some market observers are inclined to say the fears are irrational. They note that some of the very high borrowing charges are being attached to offerings carrying top ratings by the rating services.

If the rating services, which delve deeply into the financial structure of companies and municipalities, declare the bonds safe, why shouldn't investors also consider them safe?

There are several partial explanations, all of which lead to the same generalization: a lack of confidence.

The rating services might judge the soundness of bonds but they don't put their money on them; there's a big difference, easily recognized by any investors. Investing is for real; rating is paperwork.

Moreover, the big institutions that purchase bonds in quantity have other outlets for their funds, especially if they are nonpaying entities. The municipal bond tax-exemption has no attraction to pension funds, for example.

At the basis of the reluctance lies an erosion of confidence. While this might seem to be overstating the obvious, it nev-

Project residents opened doors to St. Louis police

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The cooperation of residents of the George L. Vaughn public housing project led to the speedy capture of the man suspected of killing St. Louis police officer Louis D. Sebald, Lt. Col. Adolph C. Jacobsmeyer, assistant police chief, said.

When more than 100 heavily armed police officers moved into two project buildings in north St. Louis Sunday, "the residents opened their doors and let the officers enter," Jacobsmeyer said.

"All we had to say was that a police officer had been killed, and the people opened right up," Capt. Robert Scheez, deputy area commander, said.

An apartment to apartment search for the suspect finally led to his capture. Lawrence Williams, 24, a Vietnam veterertheless is worth saying. Without confidence there are no markets of any kind — in services, goods or money.

an who had been under treatment as a mental patient, was charged in murder warrants. He was found in an apartment directly below that of his family, police said.
